

September 25, 2008

Jr. Finance Camp at Fairway Village Austin, TX

American Housing Foundation, in partnership with Jr. Finance Academy and Comerica Bank, hosted a two week financial literacy camp at the Fairway Village Neighborhood Network Center. There was an excellent response to the program with twenty children grades 4th-5th enrolling!

The students began the class with flash cards, folders, workbooks, and their very own calculators. By mid-course, the students were all raising their hands to answer questions such as “What is a wage?” and “How do you define net worth?”

Although the course material was challenging, the children of Fairway Village proved that if you set a high standard and provide quality instruction, they will reach their goal, and even surpass it!

(Continued)...

We were fortunate to have excellent teachers from Comerica, material that was well organized and well presented by Jr. Finance, and eager and enthusiastic students.

The camp was a huge success, with 17 of the children graduating. They received back packs, water bottles, certificates of achievement, T-shirts, and their very own savings account with a start of $25 each to begin their journey towards financial literacy.

American Housing Foundation is grateful for the partnership, leadership and efforts of Jr. Finance Academy and Comerica Bank!